Definition of Terms

UST leverages 30 government-funded research institutes as Schools to offer degree programs. UST students pursue both academic studies and research at government-funded research institutes known as “UST Schools” to earn their degrees. Given the School's unique structure, the following definitions have been provided to avoid confusion:

Terms	Description
School	30 government-funded research institutes in the fields of science and technology located in Korea
Representative professor	One dean for each School
Chief major professor	One department chair for each major within the School
Academic coordinator	An individual responsible for academic affairs within each school
Major teaching assistant	An individual assisting with academic affairs within each major within the School
Integrated program	The program enables obtaining a doctoral degree without requiring the submission of a master's thesis or admission process for a doctoral program. Furthermore, if students fail to pass the PhD qualification process or drop out halfway, but meet the requirements for obtaining a master's degree, they can be awarded a master's degree.
Flagship major	A major jointly offered by the supervising School and participating Schools

Important Notices

Please note that UST admission for international students will be available twice a year, with no second-round admission taking place from in the same semester.

Important Notice

Important Guidelines on the Eligibility Criteria for Applicants

- Applicants are not allowed to apply for general admission, international admission, or industry cooperation research education programs simultaneously. Applicants applying for more than one admission type will have all of their applications revoked.
- When applying for admission, if you expect to graduate, you may substitute your degree or diploma with either a certificate of expected graduation or an official letter from your university confirming your impending graduation. The substitute document must include personal information (such as name), degree to be conferred, and expected date of graduation.
- If you receive your degree later than the beginning of our admission, the certificate or letter must bear the date when you complete your degree requirements. Furthermore, the official document must be duly authenticated by Apostille or by the consulate.
- For applicants who pass the 1st screening(document review), we highly recommend getting Apostille or Korean consular verification in advance. However, an applicant who passes all procedures does not automatically become a successful applicant.

Documents authenticated solely by public notary, commissioner for oaths or advocate attorneys, or universities/working institutions are NOT acceptable. If it is difficult to obtain an Apostille certificate because the relevant country is not a member of the Apostille Convention, consular verification can replace the Apostille certificate
- Documents not written in English or Korean must be notarized translations before the Apostille certificate (or consular verification) is attached.
- Applicants can get Apostille verification for the notarized certificate of degree and transcript in lieu of original documents.
- The submission of a degree certificate is required at the time of admission registration. However, if obtaining the degree certificate is not feasible due to prospective graduation in August or due to national circumstances until the completion of the admission registration, an official letter or document stating the date of meeting the degree requirements and your personal information must be submitted. Additionally, this official document must be certified by apostille or authenticated by the Korean consulate.
- For students expecting graduation from UST or domestic universities in South Korea, it is possible to submit a graduation certificate with a verification number for confirmation.
- Applicants who have received degrees from Schools in China may submit certificates issued by the China Academic Degrees & Graduate Education Development Center (“CDGDC”)
- Applicants who have received or are expected to receive a master’s degree from UST and have submitted Apostille certificates for their diploma and transcript in the past need not submit the Apostille certification.
- Successful applicants who fail to submit all the required documents will have their admission withdrawn
- The applicant is responsible for submitting the required documents on time, as accepted applicants who submit their documents without proper legalization will not receive visa support.
